Abstract:
English language has been getting rich with the developing speed of globalization and educational progress in the different countries of the world. It is becoming foundation for any type of information importation and exportation throughout the world. It is like highway that connects to others knowledge and culture. English is used as the official language in the government administration as well as it is the link language in the different states and multilingual people of the Bharat. 80% knowledge of the world is translated into English and available on the various websites on the Internet. Learning technological disciplines is like to be in the dream without the knowledge of English language. The effective working and production selling of the multinational companies of the world by avoiding English is also like crippled bird trying to soar in the sky. English knowers have the tremendous opportunities of the securement of the jobs. In India, it is the language of court lawyers, doctors, engineers, administrators and high profiled bureaucratic people.

Keywords: English Language, Globalization, India, Knowledge, Link, Jobs, Technology and progress.

Introduction: It is very difficult to say that, which was the link language among the various states and provinces of today’s Bharat before the arrival of the East India Company? The India was divided into many provinces and states with their own one and several other dialects without the script of many. India is the country of multilingual and multicultural diversity. There are many dialects which have not their own script that are keep moving only in oral form from one generation to another. British translated the Pali, Parkrit and Sanskrit ancient texts into English and introduced it to the western world. Before that, almost 90% people of India were far away from the education process. English people introduced schools and colleges in order to fulfill their needs in the administration as they where expanding rule over India. One of the indigenous, Mahatma Jyotirao Phule imparted education to the masses. The English language brought various states people together against the British rule on one forum. The people from various provinces could assemble due to the one common language for sharing views and thoughts of Indian Freedom Movement. After independence, English language retains the position as the official language of the country and that is also binding us with the globalization.

English as Highway to others knowledge and culture: It will very clear to us if we do the comparisons between the Bharat before the English language and after in all aspects of lives of the people. When we raise a question before us, what type of education was given before Independence? Was it sufficient to all country people? Was that solving the problems of the people of various sections? What type of health education was conferred to the people? What sort of cultural concept were exist among our fellow human beings? Mahatma, Jotirao Phule established first school in 1848. This very statement reveals the fact of 18th and 19th century educational situation of the India. The people have received the education after independence due to the various educational policies of the government. English language has become the highway of knowledge and culture transmission to the western world. Our people started to be expert in various branches of knowledge for instance, Polities, Science, Medicine, Engineering, Law, Arts, and Commerce, extra. As the person acquires the knowledge of English language, he/she becomes global student without awareness of it. The societies were divided into sections within sections started to come together due to the modern education. But still there is need to reduce the traditional boundaries of the various states in our country. We have been centralized into one from many states, languages, cultures and castes so there is need to strengthen this unity into the era of world business if we want to be self reliant. If all these cultural studies translated into English and prescribed into the syllabus of various universities across the India. That will acquaints each state-person to the others culture. However, there is need to introduce such syllabi into NET, SET, MPSC and UPSC examination. When this intercultural translated studies of our country will be given importance into the job-oriented examination, which will draw the careful attrition of our youths. Thus English can be the highway of knowledge & culture to us. This language connect us to the rest of the world and its culture.

English as the language of Administration in India: After 1947, English language retains the position of official language in India. English is the medium of instruction in the many higher educational institutes as well as administration of the India. It is not used by the common village people, but by those who are high-learned people in India after 1950. The entire office administration policies are in English or Hindi. Those people who wanted to know the Indian democracy and parliamentarian activities including political parties and various government offices the knowledge of English language is unavoidable. Unfortunately, they were 80% percent people who were very far away from the processes of education since the unknown era of history of India. These people could not benefit by this, as they should be from 1950 up to 1980. The knowledge of English is the essential criterion for the administrative jobs. The government opened many schools, colleges, universities all over the India. This engorged the education of English Language. Some states of India accepted it as Second language, some as the Third Language in their states education system. Now those who wanted to have entry into the administrative posts in Indian government are proficiencing into English Language.

English and the Technology: An information communication technology connected all the people of Earth to one another. They all became interdependent for their different kinds of needs. Of course, this became possible because of the English language and technology. Technology preserved the human experiences of all the generation in the form of books, electronic devices and disseminated it among the people. But modern technology make it possible 24 hours on the Internet that is the greatest store house of knowledge and information across the world. English is one of the greatest pillars of information sharing by diverse countries of the world. Technology became very convenient in the converting 80% worlds knowledge into English language which shared by the people all over the world. Technology helped in teaching and learning English language to the learners. Aspirants are learning this language in order to be the world employee and a global citizen as for as the modern world and development is concerned. Many people who want to be the witness of various places and share the experiences of the people. Technology modified the way of communication, in other words, made it very fast and broadening. English language is the foundational stone of the today’s globalised world.

English as the link language in our country people: India is one of the biggest democratic countries in the world with diversity of languages, people, cultures, traditions, religions, sects etc. India is as diverse as the nature of the earth. To bind together such multiplicity is a great challenging task before the administrating people of the country. India comprises of 29 states and 7 central territories. Each state has its own language and more than three dialects, more than three religions, sects and people with many castes. From Jammu Kashmir to Kanyakumari, we came across a large number of varieties in physical region, the people, manners, educational ratio; production etc. there should be a strong link to bind together such diverse people on the earth as far as democracy is concerned. English language is the best way for it and there of English is the compulsory language in many colleges and universities of the country in the higher education. The government has introduced English language learning from primary school, to the students in nowadays. There are many English medium school are being established at Talulka places and districts that were confined to the cities and metrocities. Tamilian does not understand the Marathi, Maharashtrian does not understand the Tamilian, and both Tamilian and Maharashtrian will not understand the French without the knowledge of English language. If want to be progressive at national and international level we have English language is the best link for us. In globalization we cannot be away from this fact whatever our ideas about the English language may be we have to be according to the global economy and global rule directly and indirectly. To be away from these globe ideas is like suffocation at all level of development.

English as the means of getting jobs in India & outside : If we refer, the censuses we find that English knower have the excellent job opportunities in the world. English languages open the biggest storehouse of the knowledge in any educational discipline. The high job aspirant has lot of opportunity to have excellent job in the world originations. This is the era of world organizations and multinational companies. The English language is the binding factors of communication of these organizations and multinational companies. There are many world organization are working for human welfare in different aspects of the life. These organizations are creating many jobs to the world youths. The same case is with the multi-national companies in various fields for instance, technology, textile productions, and agriculture and so on. These companies are creating thousands excellent jobs per month in the world for experts in various branches of technology, agricultural industry, business organizations, production etc. These jobs are high package offering and alluring to the job seekers at national and international level.

Our country is the multistate and multilingual country. English language create the connectivity among our all the states and the people. All the major fields of jobs connected to one another in our country by the English language knowing people. English is the official language in our India. Tremendous jobs are available to the English knower and the result of it English medium schools are increasing day by day in our country. As well as there are many national and international school and colleges are established in the last two decades of 20th century. There are many scientists, doctors, engineers, administrator, business administrators, Carted Accountant are providing the service outside the India.

English Language and the Globalization:
Globalization has not spared any market without influencing. Now our village market-commodity prices are not decided by us but global market. Globalization has created a global market that is being creating a huge or gigantic competition among the different countries of the world. The analysis of this global economy is done with the help of English language but there many languages in the world. The world languages have the thousands concepts of their own which are being translated into the English and then open to the analysis. In such situation, the analysis must be exact and valuable one and it can be done only with excellent knowledge and command over the language. Those who want to sell and buy the world production, English language became the unavoidable for them. Without this language, idea to be in connection with the world market is like to be in the dreamland. The research is shown that those country who have been stressed on the teaching and learning English to their students who have lot of job opportunities.

English as the language of Doctors, Administrators, Scientists, Businesspersons, Engineers and Lawyers:
It has been said that if you want to be a high profile person in your life, you must be very good at English in your education that is the first criterion to connect the abundant storehouse of knowledge. Those students who are very clever in English at their early education they fare very well in their secondary and higher secondary level the knowledge of English enhance the speed of acquisition in other subject which are in English due to the words conceptualization. However, they are very few who get such kind of English atmosphere in their early education. Such promising students generally became the good doctor, scientists, businesspersons’ administrators, engineers, lawyers etc. However, English is not remain the language of high profiled personalities but used by the common people though it is very limited. English language gives medicinal position and the information about the medical field. The world research in the medical science is available and accessible due to the English language. Effective administration of all the states of India is possible because of the English language. This is the best tool to connect to the world administration and business is concern. Engineering is surprising field today that has made many impossible works in the world. It is the construction of very risky tunnel, bridges, towers etc. the Field of law is also like that the people talk about the human right but just imagine the communication of human rights without the English.

Reference

3. English Language and Internet by Samuca Careca (P.B.2007)
4. Teaching & Learning General English By. T.K.Sitalashmi